

THE DRAUGHT

THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. The Draught of Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and bright disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by The Draught of Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than The Draught of Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.
I have used The Draught of Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

Knew What She Wrote.

The need of a lead pencil caused a lady who rode in a street car the other day no small embarrassment.

She sat running over her shopping list when suddenly she thought of something to add to it. She looked in her pocketbook and ransacked all its divisions, cardcase and all, but no pencil did she find. Modestly she hesitated about asking her neighbors, but with a quick resolve she finally leaned toward a gentleman seated by her and, holding up her list, said loud enough for those in adjacent seats to hear, "Excuse me, sir, may I borrow your necktie a moment?"

The gentleman's astonishment was expressed in his silent facial contortions until the lady reddened deeply.

"My necktie, madam?" he replied, with arched eyebrows.

"Didn't I say 'pencil'?" she asked. And then everybody, grinning behind newspapers, knew what the lady added to her list.—Exchange.

Some Missouri Names.

The people have given singular and amusing names to many neighborhoods in Missouri, says the Kansas City Star. In Caldwell county are Zion, Lickfork and Polo. Echo Dell, Galtown and Dawson City are in Worth county. In Nodaway county are Teal Hollow, Sunrise and Possum Walk, and in Henry county is Coal. Pigeon Creek and Centennial are in Atchison county; River Dots, Splawn Ridge and Civil Bend in Daviess county; Sleepy Hollow and Ivy Hill in Sullivan county, and Esrom Echoes in Butler county. These are just a few names picked at random from the country correspondence of the county seat press. Sometimes a pretty or suggestive name is given a neighborhood, but generally the aim of the christener seems to have been to confer the harshest or most amusing appellation he could think of.

Houston, Texas, Dec. 4, 1901.
"My father has used your medicine since the War, and when I married in December, 1872, I commenced housekeeping with one bottle of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, one bottle of his Wild Cherry Bitters, and two boxes of his Little Liver Pills. I am now nearly sixty-two years of age. Looking backward I feel attached to the old medicines and would not change them for any of the new ones made."

AN EPISODE IN NAVAL ARCHITECTURE

(Original.)
Naval Constructor Prentiss Young after finishing his course at Annapolis was stationed for several years at the Bethlehem Iron works. There he experimented with armor plate and percussion shells till he knew the processes of manufacturing the toughest plate and the most penetrating shell. Young applied himself so diligently that his health began to give way, and, securing a year's leave, he went abroad.

One morning while rowing on the Bosphorus he met a handsomely canopied boat, pulled by four eunuchs, bearing a Turkish lady evidently of high rank. He stared at her, but as her face was covered he could see no feature but her eyes. Young was a handsome fellow and was at the time in the uniform of his rank. The eyes of the lady were bent upon him and, he fancied, admiringly. However this may be, the same evening while walking on the street a man accosted him in bad English, informing him that a lady who had seen him that day desired to make his acquaintance. Such an adventure suited the officer exactly, and he followed the man, who led him to a private entrance to the sultan's seraglio. After dodging through secret passages, Young suddenly stepped into a luxuriously furnished apartment, in which on a divan sat a very pretty Turkish woman. Of course she was the woman he had met on the river.

That was the year of the earthquake in Turkey—1894, I think. As Young was advancing, the lady holding out her hand to him, there were a rumbling and a rocking which loosened the flooring and let the sinful couple down into the apartment below. This was not all. The sultan was at the time visiting his favorite wife in this very apartment into which they fell, and the sight that greeted his eyes after brushing off the plaster was Lieutenant Young, with one of his sultanas clinging to him in terror.

Of course this meant death for both the sinners, and this story would end right here had not the sultan recognized Young as an American officer. Not that that deterred the autocrat from applying the customary laws, but he was at that time much impressed with the skill displayed in America in military and naval science, and it occurred to him that he might get some information. He asked the transgressor several questions, and when he learned of his peculiar experience his eyes gleamed with satisfaction.

"Go into the government works," he said, "and make me a plate armor that no shell can penetrate and a shell that no armor can resist. If you do this, you go free."

"That would be impossible, your majesty, but I will make you an armor that no shell except one you possess can penetrate, and that shell will penetrate any armor. But as an officer of the United States navy it would be unbecoming of me to save my life and leave a woman to punishment."

"Very well," said the sultan. "I consent. I have never seen this woman before, though she may have been in my harem for months. I do not even know her name. If you succeed, I will give her to you."

In a few weeks came the trial at the works in the sultan's presence. Young set up his plate and challenged the Turkish officers present to pierce it. With most of their projectiles they only dented it. The best they could do was to get into it about two inches.

"Are you satisfied, your majesty," asked Young, "that there is no shell that can pierce that plate?"

The sultan consulted with his superintendent of the works, an Englishman, and then told Young that he was satisfied.

"Very well, your majesty; I will now load the gun myself, but I ask your majesty to withdraw every one to a distance while I insert the projectile in order that your majesty alone may possess the secret, which I will transmit to you after the experiment."

To this the sultan assented. Then Young surprised them all by taking up a shell of the kind they had been using, but before putting it into the gun it was observed that he took something from his vest pocket. When all was ready, Young fired the shell, which penetrated the plate, tearing away the backing. The shell was found to be unimpaired. The sultan examined it greedily, then looked up in amazement. There was nothing on it different from any other shell and no mark to indicate that anything had been attached. The next shot was fired at an angle of twenty degrees. It pierced both plate and backing and struck the wall fusing the works, 500 feet away. The sultan and all the officers present held up their hands in astonishment.

"Tell me at once," cried the sultan, "this wonderful secret!"

Then Young took a cap and fixed it to the point of a shell. It was held there by magnetism. It was a combination of metals which protected the shell's point till it had passed the hard surface of the plate and reached the softer metal at the back.

The sultan clapped his hands, and eunuchs appeared, leading the lady who invited Young to her apartments. He gallantly crooked his arm and led her out of the works amid the plaudits of the assembled throng.

That evening an envoy came from the sultan's palace bearing a bag of gold for a dowry. This was a much more sensible way of settling the matter than drowning the woman in the Bosphorus, as was the law. The sultan gained a valuable secret and got rid of an unfaithful wife.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also a convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.

Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The Introduction of Forks.

Forks are articles of such common household necessity to us that we hardly realize that there was a time, and not so long ago either, when forks were entirely unknown. A knife was used at the table to cut up food, but the food so cut was afterward conveyed by the fingers to the mouth. Rich and poor alike were accustomed to this method and so thought it perfectly correct.

It was about the year 1600 and in the reign of James I. when forks were first introduced into England. This "piece of refinement," we are told, was derived from the Italians.

Serpent Worship in India.

Serpent worship, once very widely diffused, survives in India. Sometimes when Hindus find a cobra in some crevice in the wall of their house it will often be revered, fed and propitiated, and if fear or the death of some one bitten by it induces them to remove it they will handle it tenderly and let it loose in some field. When Hindus are bitten, they have far more confidence in their magic spell or "muntra" than in any medicine, even if they do not scruple to make use of medical aid.

Cancer Cured.

Mr. W. W. Prickett, Smithfield, Ill., writes, Sept. 10, 1901: "I had been suffering several years with a cancer on my face, which gave me great annoyance and unbearable itching. I was using Ballard's Snow Liniment for a sore leg, and through an accident, I rubbed some of the liniment on the cancer, and as it gave me almost instant relief, I decided to continue to use the liniment on the cancer. In a short time the cancer came out, my face healed up and there is not the slightest scar left. I have implicit faith in the merits of this preparation, and it cannot be too highly recommended." 25c, 50c and $1.00. For sale by J. M. Jones.

A lot of trouble is stirred up by people who insist on saying things when they have nothing to say.

WEAK AND LOW-SPIRITED.

A Correspondent Thus Describes His Experience.

"I can strongly recommend Herbine as a medicine of remarkable efficacy for indigestion, loss of appetite, sour taste in the mouth, palpitation, headache, drowsiness after meals with distressing mental depressions and low spirits. Herbine must be a unique preparation for cases such as mine, for a few doses entirely removed my complaint. I wonder at people going on suffering or spending their money on worthless things, when Herbine is procurable, and so cheap." 50c a bottle at J. M. Jones.

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kan., writes: "My husband, lay sick for three months; the doctors stated he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup and it cured him. That was six years ago, and since then we always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds, it has no equal." 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottle at J. M. Jones.
